

Social Chain 3

Generation 1.

A man went out and had drinks with his very attractive secretary, she then invited him up to her apartment, to which he readily agreed and then she said she was going to go and 'slip into something a little more comfortable', then she returned with a birthday cake and a surprise birthday party for the man, the guests included his friends, family and wife. They found the man looking very surprised in nothing but his socks.

Generation 2.

A man went out for drinks with his very attractive secretary. She then invited him back to her place. When they got back she said she was going to 'slip into something more comfortable'. She returned with a birthday cake and a surprise party for the man. Amongst the guests were his friends, family and wife. They were surprised to see him there in nothing but his socks.

Generation 3.

A man went out for drinks with his secretary. When they returned to his house she asked him to 'slip into something more comfortable' while she left the room for a short while. She returned with a birthday cake. His friends and family were surprised to find him wearing nothing but his socks.